THE PORT OF DAVISVILLE: Serving a Multitude of Industries

AUTO PROCESSING

North Atlantic Distribution, Inc. (NORAD) is a privately owned company located at the Port of Davisville in Rhode Island. NORAD is one of the largest auto processors in North America and a major distribution hub for imported and domestic vehicles. On 150 waterfront acres NORAD's Davisville facility has had a total throughput of over 2 million vehicles. With a reputation for quality, innovation and competitive pricing, NORAD has provided services for several major manufacturers including Chrysler, Saab, Nissan, Peugeot, Fiat and Maserati. Current customers include VW/Audi of America, Subaru of New England, Bentley Motorcars, Porsche Cars North America Inc., Ford, and American Honda.

SEAFOOD AND PUBLIC COLD STORAGE

Seafreeze, Ltd. is the largest producer of sea frozen fish on the U.S. East Coast. They supply sea frozen and land frozen fish to a world-wide range of markets, including bait products to domestic and international longline fleets. Fish products include underutilized species, such as: Illex Squid, Loligo Squid, Atlantic Mackerel, Atlantic Butterfish and Atlantic Herring. Seafreeze has a cold storage capacity of approximately 23 million pounds. The company also offers public cold storage, and can load and unload reefer vessels (trampers), refrigerated containers, refrigerated railcars and trucks.

MARINE HIGHWAY TERMINAL

The Port of Davisville recently invested $23 million to improve its facilities, which includes the addition of a 150 MT mobile harbor crane. Davisville is actively pursuing carriers and terminal operators to provide container feeder services to East Coast ports including New York, Boston, Halifax, and Norfolk. These improvements are designed to provide better service and cost savings to regional shippers and major ocean carrier services.

WIND ENERGY AND PROJECT CARGO

With the addition of the 150 MT mobile harbor crane, Davisville can handle a wide range of project cargoes and break bulk materials, including wind turbines and heavy equipment. The Port of Davisville location positions wind energy companies the ability to participate in offshore projects from Cape Cod to New Jersey.
